

LoanServe — Grievance Redressal Policy

Document reference POL-GRV-006 · Effective 2025-02-01

Scope and Application

This policy sets out how a borrower may complain, who will hear the complaint and how long each level may take. It applies to any dissatisfaction with a product, a charge, a decision or the conduct of any person acting for LoanServe. A complaint may be made by the borrower, a co-borrower or a person authorised in writing by either. No complaint is refused on the ground that it is made in a language other than English.

Escalation Levels

A complaint registered at the first level receives an acknowledgement within 48 hours. If unresolved within ten working days the complaint may be escalated to the Nodal Officer. If the Nodal Officer does not resolve the matter within thirty days the borrower may approach the Banking Ombudsman.

Contact Channels

Complaints may be registered through the customer portal, by email or at any branch. Every registered complaint is issued a unique complaint reference number.

Records

Complaint records are retained for a period of five years from the date of closure.

What a Complaint Must Carry

A complaint should carry the loan account number, the date of the event complained of, and what the complainant would like done. A complaint without an account number is accepted and traced against the complainant's registered details. Supporting documents may be attached but a complaint is not held up for want of them. An anonymous complaint is recorded and examined but no reply is issued.

How a Complaint Is Handled

Every complaint is assigned to a named officer whose contact details are given in the acknowledgement. The complainant is told the expected date of resolution when the complaint is acknowledged. Where more time is needed, an interim reply is sent explaining why and giving a revised date. A complaint is closed only after the complainant has been told the outcome and the reason for it.

Root Cause and Reporting

Complaints are classified by cause so that repeated causes can be corrected rather than merely answered. A summary of complaints received, resolved and pending is placed before the Customer Service Committee each quarter. The number of complaints escalated to the Banking Ombudsman is reported separately. Where a complaint reveals a systemic error, every affected borrower is identified and put right without waiting for them to complain.

Definitions

'Complaint reference number' means the identifier issued when a complaint is registered and quoted at every escalation level. 'Nodal Officer' means the officer designated to hear complaints that the first level has not resolved.

Exceptions and Discretion

A matter already before a court or an arbitrator is not examined under this policy. A complaint about an event more than three years old is examined only where records are still available. A repeated complaint on a matter already decided is answered by referring the complainant to the earlier decision. The timelines in this policy are not extended except by the Nodal Officer, in writing.

Records and Evidence

The complaint, every communication about it and the reason for the decision are retained for five years from closure. Call recordings relevant to a complaint are preserved for the life of the complaint even if the usual retention period expires. A complainant may ask for a copy of the decision on their complaint at any time.

Related Policies

The Grievance Redressal Policy should be read with: Late Payment and Default Charges, Moratorium and Restructuring Policy.

Regulatory and Compliance Notes

This policy follows the directions on grievance redressal, including the appointment of a Nodal Officer and the display of the escalation matrix. The name and contact details of the Nodal Officer are displayed at every branch and on the customer portal. A complainant who is not satisfied may approach the Banking Ombudsman, and the details of that office are given with every final reply.

Review and Governance

Owned by the Customer Experience team. The escalation matrix is displayed at every branch and on the customer portal.